With Illustrator 20 Beta, we are going to try something completely new. We always say, “That would be really cool,” and then we don’t have time to do it. Anyway, this time around, we’ve decided to do it. The idea is to offer a way for content creators to be able to use the 21 new drawing actions in a variety of ways. But the idea we’re very excited about is this: working with action layers. So, let’s go over that again. We’ve added some new actions, and we’ve added some other actions that are compatible with what you can do in a previous version of Illustrator. But they just don’t work together. They’re just incompatible, and we’ve had content creators coming to us asking for a way to have their content work in Illustrator 20 without them having to learn Illustrator 20. So the idea here is to give you a way to create a new document in Illustrator CS4 or Illustrator 19, add content, and then when you want to go into Illustrator 20, you could just trigger the action. You just map the compass from north to south, all the way around. And then I come to a curve, so now I have to map the meter. I just can’t go from the North end of the curve and go to the South end of the curve. There’s no way to do it, because what we’re doing now is we’re simply translating one control to another. We don’t want that, because we
