With the release of Windows 10, Microsoft finally brought back the backward-compatible mode of File Explorer. A couple of updates ago, this backward compatibility mode was present for files larger than 4GB. And it's back. Now, File Explorer should be much easier to use if you plan to browse a lot of files. In fact, there are two things that have been moved. On the one hand, the files category is now placed at the left sidebar of the File 1d6a3396d6
