In recent years, there has been an increased focus on non-smoking as an equally important public health intervention as smoking cessation. This includes promotion of non-smoking and smoke-free environments, and tobacco control legislation. The recent prevalence estimates of non-smoking is somewhat better for Tanzania compared to other sub-Saharan African countries, with only 2.3% of the population reporting daily cigarette smoking \[@B2]. However, these estimates are still far too high, considering the other leading causes of death in Tanzania. By 2030, non-smoking rates will need to be increased further in order to be in line with targets for global tobacco control. The implementation of the recently approved national tobacco control law by the Tanzania MoH in 2012 has been welcomed, and is regarded as a step in the right direction in tobacco control policy \[@B3]. However, more recent evidence indicates that the specific smoking and non-smoking advertising restrictions contained within the law are unlikely to be effective in reducing smoking prevalence \[@B4]. Despite the increase in the existing smoking laws, the law has only been poorly implemented in practice. Furthermore, to date there has been no evidence of any effective tobacco control strategy in Tanzania. There are several major challenges facing Tanzania in order to achieve long term 1d6a3396d6

InstaLockDown is a handy software program to lock your computer at a click of a button. The most common means of data transfer are covered, with more to come. The good thing is that you don't need to worry about security, as the program comes with a good security system which relies on password protection. Also, the use of password is optional, but highly recommended. However, if you forget the password, you will not be able to unlock the program at all. This limits you to the "general settings", such as the time of your computer entering lockdown mode. In addition to the general settings, you can also specify which channels should be blocked and the length of time needed before the automatic mode is executed. I'm new to C and have a struct named Node. When I run the code: for (Node *cur = head; cur!= NULL; cur = cur->next) { printf("The value is %d ", cur->data); } The output is: The value is 1 The value is 1 The value is 1 1 I don't understand why it doesn't update the struct variable cur->data. Thanks in advance! A: cur is a pointer to a Node* object. You don't need to dereference cur to access the value of cur->data - just use *cur. In your first iteration of the loop, you're overwriting cur's value with newNode, which is 1. In the second iteration, you're overwriting that with cur, which is still 1, and so on...
