I have an ATA/Firewire hard drive with NTFS support, usually used for backups. The hard drive has an ASUSTek brand sticker on it that says as-rock AS-900504 as well as serial number AS-00558. Its make and model is Western Digital My Book. It is fried. I've tried reseating it, unplugging it, to no avail. I've also tried another ATA/Firewire drive and a drive from a different computer. The same problem, as described above, happens. I get the error "the given device could not be read". The drive is more than 5 years old and I had it serviced last summer. The computer, tower, internal keyboard, and external keyboard work 3e33713323
