The stories are set in World War I and World War II, and have been widely acclaimed. Production The app is the result of collaboration between three people: Ludovic Gondet, the game designer, the writer Pauline Aubert, and the artist Géraldine Tabet. Ludovic Gondet wrote the entire script for "Death of a Soldier", and Géraldine Tabet created the artwork. Pauline Aubert wrote "Dad", "The Stranger", and provided the original story. The app was created by Ludovic Gondet and Géraldine Tabet for 30 hours. The End's first app, Space Mac, is the second iOS game written by Ludovic Gondet. Reception The French magazine L'Expansion gave I, You, We four stars out of five, praising the brevity of the stories, the voice acting, and the music. Le Monde l'Hommage magazine published a review in July 2016. The reviewer praises the brevity of the game, stating that the first chapter of "The Stranger" takes about thirty minutes to complete, and the second chapter about an electronic document format that can be read and displayed by programs for Windows, Macintosh, and Unix workstations. The file extension for the PDF is just.pdf, which gives it the advantage of being very portable (it can be stored on devices and media such as CD-ROMs, memory sticks and other small devices, easily copied via e-mail and very small, usually just a fraction of a megabyte, making the PDFs small and easy to send over the Internet). There are many free PDF readers and a free PDF editor, but one of the most suitable and reliable editors is called PDF Editor. PDF Editor Description: A PDF Editor is very helpful when it comes to editing your PDF files. Many of the PDF Reader programs (like Adobe Reader) can be set as the default PDF viewer for Windows, and this might cause the file to open in a browser instead of a program, but this can easily be fixed. However, a PDF Editor allows you to open, modify, create, and print PDF files. With the PDF Editor you can: - Create a new document - Open existing documents (up to 12 at the
