It's a space explorer and a planetarium all in one. Stellarium has loads of features that will help you find your place in the universe and discover the stars. Search through the universe The application allows you to search through the universe to find your location. You can look for any star or planet. You can even type in a special keyword to search for that particular object. Stellarium has two modes: celestial and sidereal. The former is perfect for viewing the night sky and looking at the stars. The latter, on the other hand, is better for viewing the moon and planets. The application also allows you to easily navigate in the universe. For this, you need to pick a unit, which is the size of the object that you would like to view. With the help of the app, you can view the universe from two angles: 0,0,0 which gives you an overview and 0,90,0 which gives you a close-up view. The application also has a feature that allows you to zoom in and out of the universe. You can easily choose the right zoom level and it will automatically update the view. The app lets you view the whole sky by looking at the chart of the night sky which comes with it. It also has a quick access mode which allows you to access the application's various features without taking the time to click through the menu. The application also lets you take a screenshot of the sky at the moment that you look at it. There are two different ways to view the application. You can either point the device to the moon and look at the moon in real-time or you can point it to the Sun to get a view of the night sky in real-time. The app also has a map feature that lets you select a map and view it on the map of the universe. The option comes with loads of different maps. You can use the maps to navigate the universe and find your location and you can also look at any object that you want to find. Stellarium is an awesome and interesting app. With its wide range of features, it will help you understand
