"I feel like we've had a battle of wits," Mr Farage told Mr Johnson's rival, Mr Hunt, during a Brexit Party election rally in Brighton. It comes after Mr Johnson rebuked Mr Farage over comments the Brexit leader made about trade on the BBC's Andrew Marr Show on Sunday. Addressing Mr Johnson, Mr Farage said: "I see the Brexit Party around the country, I see the people in your party who are fighting me, and I'm sorry you and I have to fight like this because I am your natural ally. "But you shouldn't send me a tweet saying I'm a bunch of wankers - I've been in politics for 35 years." The PM has criticised Nigel Farage Mr Farage said the Brexit Party had a simple message to voters on Thursday's election. "We've got the only real deal for UK and we're taking back control," he said. "If we keep Boris Johnson as our Prime Minister, he'll crash the economy and we will crash out of the European Union - there is no deal, there is no Brexit, there is no democracy and there is no country." The Labour leader Jeremy Corbyn also addressed Mr Johnson and Mr Farage during his campaign visit to Mansfield on Wednesday evening. Mr Farage and Mr Johnson have been involved in a three-way fight against each other and Mr Hunt throughout the Tory leadership race. Mr Johnson is widely seen as a frontrunner to replace Theresa May as Prime Minister, while Mr Hunt is expected to be the next foreign secretary and Mr Farage will be first in the line of succession to become leader of the Conservative Party. Mr Farage continued to attack Mr Johnson after his appearance on the Andrew Marr Show. "It's not just your arrogance and lack of humility
